Being a Woman Today

Saturday, April 25th

Speaker: Angela Köhler-Weisker (DPV, Germany)

*Psychoanalytic Parent – Infant Psychotherapy:
An effective method for postpartum depression of the mother with her baby in CO-Therapy*

Discussant: Rotraut De Clerck (DPV, Germany)

Chair: Anna Gąsiorowska-Krawczyk (PTPa, Poland)

Not only the baby needs therapy, but also the depressed mother. Analytic PIP offers the best treatment for the relationship between the two when it focuses understanding on both patients and the father if possible. The specific attitudes and procedures required in this therapy, preferably with two therapists, are described. This shows PIP as a key preventive tool.

Angela Köhler-Weisker, PhD, trained as a pediatrician. She was scientific assistant at the Sigmund-Freud-Institut in Frankfurt. She is a training analyst and ethno - psychoanalyst. Since 2001 she is cofounder of the Baby ambulance of the Anna-Freud-Institut, Frankfurt. She has many lectures and publications about PIP.

Monography on "Postpartale Depression. (English version in preparation).
